REPUBLICAN VICTORY TOMORROW AT THE POLLS TO BE COMPLETE

Not Believed There is Danger of Single Break in Republican Ranks

CANDIDATES WORKING HARD

John O. Watson Popular Man for Commissioner—Borough Results To Be Eagerly Watched—Interest in Vote on Woman Suffrage.

Though all seems serene and quiet in political circles hard work is being done to get out a big vote at the general election tomorrow, and present evidences are that the already assured Republican victory will be all the more pronounced by the majorities which will be rolled up. It is not believed there is danger in any single instance of the Democratic opponents breaking through the ranks in the county ticket.

Admittedly the Republican county ticket is one of the strongest presented in years. Headed by Hon. Henry W. Temple, it includes some of the best known and cleanest men that could be put up as candidates.

Strength will be given the Republican ticket, particularly along the river by the candidacy of John O. Watson, of North Charleroi, for commissioner. Watson is a man for whom river people have been shouting their loudest. Not alone has he gained support in the river district, but throughout the entire county.

Watson has a propensity for making friends wherever he goes and from the northern to the southern boundaries and from east to west in the county he has lieutenants working for him. Thomas Hill a member of the present board of commissioners and a man of much influence at the county seat and in county affairs is a candidate for reelection, and is generally selected as one who will poll a big vote. There will be a minority member of the board elected, and naturally enough this will be a Democrat. The two candidates are A. P. Barnum and E. C. Horn. Barnum is a member of the present board and it must be said in his favor that he has proven one of the best commissioners the county has had in years. In Charleroi he will be given a hearty support.

W. H. Alexander is the Republican candidate for treasurer. W. S. Lockhart is seeking re-election for clerk of courts. James T. Heffran is the candidate for re-election as coroner, and A. V. Lewis is the candidate for election as prothonotary. Isaac W. Batum is out for district attorney and Boyd C. Marshall for register of wills. George E. Adams and W. W. Hawkins are the Republican nominees for director of the poor. All of these are strong candidates, and all of them can afford to feel confident of a good majority election.

Frank H. Wickerham of Monongahela is the Republican nominee for sheriff and is waging a clean cut fight for the place. S. L. Woodward of Charleroi is the Democratic nominee and he is canvassing thoroughly the county to win votes.

Generally the Democrats are not waging a hot campaign and would be satisfied to claim even the tiniest of

UNIONTOWN PEOPLE EAGERLY AWAIT RETURN OF THOMPSON

Several Hundred Gather at Station to Receive Him, But He Does Not Come—Hearing Today.

Attorneys from Greene, Somerset and Westmoreland counties representing creditors of J. V. Thompson, the Uniontown banker whose bank failed last spring, gathered at Uniontown today to attend the meeting this evening when the attorneys for Mr. Thompson must give a definite answer to the creditors committee appointed to consider plans to adjust Thompson's financial difficulties.

It was rumored Sunday that Mr. Thompson had secured the $20,000,000 necessary to satisfy his creditors and was coming to Uniontown Sunday night. Several hundred persons gathered at the Baltimore and Ohio and Pennsylvania stations but were disappointed. It was rumored Thompson had secured the money from New York capitalists where he has been for the last few days.

BOY BICYCLIST HAS AWFUL DEATH

Shaft of Buggy Penetrates Boy's Skull When He Dashes Into Rig

LOSES CONTROL OF WHEEL

Injuries received when he crashed into a buggy after losing control of his bicycle while coming down Sugar Hill at Washington Saturday afternoon, resulted in the death at 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Washington hospital, of Hiram Riston Horner, aged eight years, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Horner, who reside on Sugar Hill, just west of Washington. A shaft penetrated into the lad's brain and nothing could be done to save him.

Loosening of a handlebar screw caused the pitiful accident, which occurred probably a mile and a half from the spot where Ambers L. Eakin and T. Ross Johnson met their death last Thursday morning.

When the screw suddenly loosened, the boy lost control of his bicycle. It swerved across the road and crashed into a horse and buggy driven by Mrs. Charles Taylor, who, also, resides near Sugar Hill. The boy's head struck the shaft squarely and it penetrated through his skull into the brain.

The accident seems to have been entirely unavoidable. The bicycle turned across the road so quickly that Mrs. Taylor was unable to make even an effort to pull her horse out of the road of the uncontrollable bicycle. She was accompanied by her daughter and both were greatly affected by the mishap.

The boy was rushed to the Washington hospital and everything pos-

NO DISEASE EPIDEMIC EXISTS IN CHARLEROI

Few Diseases of Serious Nature Reported by Health Officer William Darby—Sanitary Condition Generally Good

Few contagious diseases exist in Charleroi, according to the report of Health Officer William M. Darby to the health board Friday evening for the month of October.

There were during the month two cases of scarlet fever, three of chicken pox, three of diphtheria, two of mumps and one of typhoid fever. None of them were what might be called a serious nature.

Affairs are well in hand now in the town, the health board report shows and there is a good sanitary condition existing.

NORMAL ELIMINATED IN CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT

Charleroi High School Downs Up-River Team In Gruelling Struggle On Local Field Saturday—Whole Team Plays Well.

Charleroi high school eliminated California Normal as a contender for the county and Monongahela valley scholastic football championship Saturday afternoon, but didn't do it without the hardest kind of a struggle. These two giants in scholastic circles battled through 45 minutes of the most gruelling kind of play, with the result in figures 10 to 0 in Charleroi's favor. These points were all made in the early part of the game.

High school was without the services of Capt. Lowstuter, who declined to play after some sort of a disagreement with the coach. However without him the team played the strongest sort of a game. Stahlman was at quarterback, and Kellogg at fullback. The new backfield combination worked well too.

The first score of the game was made after Charleroi had pushed, shoved and ran California back to the 27 yard line. Stahlman called for a placement kick and Miksch was sent to try it. The kick was a beaut, and the ball passed between the bars as prettily as you please. This took place in the second quarter. It wasn't long after until Charleroi had pushed the ball to California's same goal and Miksch had plunged over for a touchdown. He followed by kicking.

At least one new face was seen in the Charleroi lineup on Saturday. Ryland, a guard of last year's team was back, and was a stout right guard. Conspicuous in all the playing were the two halves, Lowstuter and Miksch. Ritchey the powerful right tackle played as though he had a special inspiration. The ends, Hickey and Piersol were at their best until they were forced to sible done to save his life, but no hope was held by the attending physicians after a thorough examination of the injury had been made.

The Horner family resided near Marianna before coming to Washington. Besides the father and mother, one brother and two sisters survive. John, Elizabeth and Corine, all at home. The boy as well as his parents were known in Charleroi.

Funeral services will be held at the Horner home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in the Washington cemetery.

WOMEN BATTLING FOR BIG SUFFRAGE VOTE

Mrs. Frank M. Roessing Sends Out To Voters Asking Them to Vote on Question—"Practical" Politics in Two Cities.

The Woman Suffrage Association of Pennsylvania is putting forth its final efforts today for the adoption of amendment No. 1 at the polls tomorrow. Yet there is bound to be a hard battle. Mrs. Frank M. Roessing president of the association today sent out the following message to newspapers throughout the state:

"From the leading politicians of this state comes word that no orders have been given out against the suffrage amendment. We have learned, however that certain interests that are inherent enemies of woman suffrage expect to defeat one amendment by concentrating their efforts on Philadelphia and Pittsburgh on Tuesday. Their plan is to play 'Practical' politics at the polls and roll up so big a vote in these two cities that the voters in the other counties of the state who favor suffrage will be practically disfranchised. This plan can be upset if every voter in the counties outside Philadelphia and Pittsburgh makes it his business to go to the polls on election day.

"Will you please make this fact public and urge the people who favor suffrage in your community to see that every voter gets out. We want suffrage to stand or fall in this state on the verdict of the whole people, not just the verdict of the controlled districts in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh."

APPLICATIONS ARE NOW DUE

State Highway Department Sends Out Notices to Automobile Owners

ARE PREPARED FOR RUSH

"Now is the time to send in your applications for 1916 automobile licenses," is the keynote of a notice sent out today by the state highway department at Harrisburg. The application blanks for 1916 registrations and licenses are now ready and are being sent out and, according to the statement, all owners are urged to get their applications in at the earliest minute possible.

The automobile division of the state highway department has prepared for the annual rush of applications and already many have been received. Attention is called to the law governing the granting of licenses, which requires an affidavit, properly filled out, to accompany the application. Shipment of 1916 licenses will be begun by the automobile division of the state highway department on December 1.

This year, as in the past, many requests have been received from automobile owners for the same number which they now have. The statement issued today, however, gives notice that no applications for specific numbers will be entertained after November 20.

Another point on which the statement places emphasis is that no municipality, city or borough has the right under the law to grant to any individual the right to operate his car without a license or with the license of another year.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. Emma Dawson.

Immense Crowd Expected to be on Hand to Enjoy Events Tonight

ORGANIZATIONS ENTHUSIASTIC

Several to be in Line, Including Woman Suffragists—Parade Line to Extend Down McKean and Up Fallowfield Avenue.

Charleroi's annual Hallowe'en celebration tonight promises to surpass any previous celebration. This is the word that is given out by the general committee arranging the event and they issue this information only upon definite facts. One of the biggest crowds ever present at a street of the kind is anticipated. The crowd will come prepared to enjoy a good time and assuredly says the committee they will have it.

The big feature of the celebration of course will be the evening parade which will form at 7:30 o'clock and move at 8 o'clock. Leading the line of parade will be members of the police force. Then will come the Charleroi Concert band. After the band will come the various organizations and then the floats. Maskers will come last in the parade.

Chief Marshal Harry Hornell will marshal his forces on Second street, with the line extending back on Washington avenue. The parade will move down Second street to McKean thence on McKean to Ninth street, up Ninth to Fallowfield and on Fallowfield avenue to Fifth street. The parade line will extend down Fifth street to the reviewing stand near the railroad station and pass in review twice that the judges may properly decide the winners.

A number of organizations will be in line. Among them will be a woman's suffrage delegation in automobiles. Efforts are being made to interest both auto owners and women in this. Other organizations who will march will be the firemen and the Royal Arcanum. However these may not be all.

A LONELY GIRL

A recent magazine story was built around the experiences of a young girl who with her parents had spent three years on a stony ranch just over the great divide toward the west and when perforce deprived of any association with girls and boys had formed a friendship for a magnificent wild horse and by unwearied patience had overcome the horse's fear of men and had so won his confidence that she might ride him, and he showed a marked attachment for her. In a city or town one may be wonderfully lonely and very much in need of a friend. Along this line an eastern exchange comments as follows:

It is usually loneliness that does it. The report of the Philadelphia Vice Commission issued a couple of years ago was sufficient to convince one of that. The girls themselves said so, and surely in searching their own conscience they should know.

"Now Eva Booth, commander of the Salvation Army in America, takes up the drink question from the same angle. She asserts that most girls drink because they desire companionship and find the sparkling fluid an easy medium through which to get what their hungry hearts want. In accordance with her theory, Miss Booth states that drinking to excess is most prevalent among working girls who occupy 'just rooms.' It helps them forget the absence of friends.

"A whole world looks up to Eva Booth—plain Eva Booth, and she ought to know what she is talking about. Her work has thrown her among repentant women of the working class. Yet her theory seems to much in variance with every day facts that it astounds.

"Are girls lonely when they sit in the bright lights of cafes, surrounded by happy, laughing companions? Is it not a fact that a great number of moderately drinking girls and women will testify that they never think of drinking when alone, but only when they are with companions that drink? And how many poor working girls, living in 'just rooms,' are familiar with the gift and tinsel of the cafe?

Loneliness is such an innocent condition and so easily remedied in this kindly and cheerful world that it seems scarcely fair to blame it for drunkenness among girls and women. Besides, most girls and women are far too intelligent to believe for a minute that intoxicating liquor is an acceptable companion. With all respect to Miss Booth it would seem reasonable to believe that other causes than loneliness are responsible for the curse concerning which she complains."

MAIN THING IS TO VOTE

The main thing is for every voter to cast his ballot tomorrow. Tomorrow we are to elect officers from congressman down to precinct officers, and it might be differently put from precinct officers up.

County results are not doubted in this Republican year, but a big vote is demanded because of the whole-some influence it will have on the coming presidential year. Every Republican has a lot at stake.

Outside of the county there are state issues to be decided. Superior court judges are to be elected. The fate of three proposed constitutional amendments is to be determined, chief among them will be that of woman suffrage.

Woman suffrage in Pennsylvania is an issue with a national aspect and the result will be carefully watched at this as well as in the other states which Tuesday will consider this momentous question of the day. Upon Pennsylvania's decision hinges the greatest interest of all. If this one of the original thirteen states swings into the woman suffrage column it will be the turning point in this nation to the light for equal suffrage.

No longer is the idea laughed at of teaching a farmer how to farm by schooling him theoretically in the art. Instead the plan is being very generally adopted, if you please, by the fathers of the boys themselves. It is a decided step in advance for Washington county school directors to establish the study of agricultural pursuits in their curriculum. It is a recognition of the wonderful success of vocational schools and secondly and by far the more important a recognition of the actual need of such a study. The way to make a good mechanic a better mechanic is to teach him more about his business and the way to make a good farmer a better farmer is to teach him more about his business. That is why agricultural schools have been very generally established. Their success is undisputed. No one can know quite all about farming or any other business or profession, but the way he can know most is by studying the combined theories and practices of others who know something about it.

"This organized Halloween celebration is the best thing that ever was brought to pass in Charleoi," declared a business man Friday. "It may cost a lot of money," he continued, "but believe me the cost is nothing compared to what the destruction of property under the old-fashioned arrangement would amount to." Every word of what he says is true. Spending money for a celebration here has better than a pleasurable aspect—it is economical.

With a scheme of a new order a suave stranger within the last few days successfully preyed upon at least two Charleoi merchants and a number in other communities. Using money order blanks stolen from a New Jersey postoffice, prepared so as to defeat all suspicion, he obtained money easily upon request. In some points even postoffice authorities it is stated were fooled. The stranger's plan worked well. If he has any more blanks left his plan will still work well, for if there is anything that looks safe it is a postoffice money order, properly stamped and dated. The successful operation of this unusual fleeing game teaches us that only by everlasting vigilance in all particulars will we ever free ourselves from the snares of the sharper.

This has been somewhat of a start-up year in borough affairs and according to rumor the end is not yet. But whatever has happened and whatever has been done or not done, there is one outstanding feature that is conspicuous. Public interest has been aroused in a way that it has not been before. And when public interest is aroused it betokens good for the community. That languid feeling which fosters borough ills.

While not a great deal of definite information is heard from Serbia, that tiny center of all Europe's trouble, it is indicated that the real fighting of the great war so far is taking place there. With Serbia, overrun by hordes, it is a fight for a lighthouse, a fight to live, a fight for liberty. With any other participant the same actuating spirit is missing. Belgium could only in part furnish a parallel.

Attention has again been called by the Grim Reaper to the necessity of surrounding automobiling with greater safeguards. Whether by the passage of new laws or whether by the enforcement of those we already have could this best be done is a question we submit respectfully to any jury of automobile enthusiasts.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A physician tells of two young friends of his who entered simultaneously upon their respective careers of physician and lawyer.

Late one afternoon the newly-made medico dashed into the room of his legal friend, exclaiming, "Great luck, old man! Congratulate me; Got a patient at last. A rich old lady! (On the way to see her now!)"

Whereupon the legal light-to-be slapped his friend on the back, saying, "Delighted, old chap!" Then, after a slight pause, he added, with a sly grin, "I say, let me go with you. Perhaps she hasn't made her will."

Forty years ago when one order of Grangers was young the slogan even then was "cut out the middle-man."

A prominent Granger was hiking down the street at a pretty lively gait when he was accosted by a neighbor who inquired where he was going and why the rush. He said he was going to the undertaker's.

"What's the matter?" said the neighbor.

"My wife's sick," said the other fellow.

"Well," said the neighbor, "what you want to do is get a doctor."

"Not me," said the man. "I'm cutting out all the middlemen."

There is one gentleman whom we always admire and love to meet and he is the gentleman who tells how cheaply he runs his furnace. Next to the gentleman who knows how to keep a hired girl, he is the most lovable and entertaining person we know says Roy K. Moulton in the Philadelphia Star.

We have never succeeded in running our furnace cheaply or in running it at all. Our furnace has always run us. We have followed every bit of sage advice that has floated around our way. We have raised the jim-crack and lowered the boband-fetich. We have pulled out the carburetor and pushed in the spark plug. We have twisted the geewilliker and turned the marlinpike. We have polished the piston rod, oiled the monkey wrench, inverted the dudenscker and upser the whiffletree. We have worked all these things singly and in combination, backward forward, inside and out, up and down, alaman left, swing to the corners and balance all and our furnace has still got the Sphinx of Egypt backed off the boards as an all around full-jeweled, stem-winding mystery. It is a grinding, demoniacal thing, waiting for whom it may devour.

In illustrating the fruits of advertising an American paper, says:

A family in Florida lost their little boy and advertised for him in a daily paper. That very afternoon an alligator crawled out of the swamp and died on the front door-step. In his stomach was found a handful of red hair, some bone buttons, a glass marble, a pair of check pants and a paper collar. The advertisement did it.

HELP FOR POTATO GROWERS

Finest of Tubers May Be Grown With the Aid of Embalming Fluid, Experiments Show.

It seems very curious that a chemical extensively used to preserve the dead in the way of an embalming fluid could be successfully used as a help toward growing good potatoes, but such is the case, remarks an exchange.

It has been found that a proper solution of formaldehyde will insure a most excellent crop of the finest potatoes, where it has formerly been quite difficult to make certain soil grow anything but a very inferior crop.

To prevent scabby or rusty appearing potatoes, the potatoes to be planted should be soaked for two hours in a solution composed of one pint of pure formaldehyde to 50 gallons of water.

It may be placed in large tubs, and the potatoes put in burlap sacks and laid in the liquid for a couple of hours, and then spread out on clean grass to dry for an hour or more before cutting and planting.

The potatoes should be cut into pieces having two or more eyes from which to sprout.

One good plan where a number of bushels of potatoes are to be planted is to have the liquid in barrels, with spigot at the bottom for drawing off liquid.

Potatoes should not be gathered up, after being treated, in the same sacks or baskets they were in prior to being soaked, as they are apt to be reinfected more or less by the disease which is being fought.

In certain localities the potato has become so diseased it is almost impossible to secure pure healthy seed and this formaldehyde process is remedying the difficulty largely.

NATION HAD EXALTED IDEAS

Pyramids and Temples of Early Mexican Race Reveal Much to Student of Religion.

Religion and superstition are much combined in the mind of the Mexicans, the result of both ancient and modern creeds. As to the antique beliefs and cult, there is much that appeals to the philosopher in the religious structures and history of the prehistoric, semi-civilized peoples of Mexico, or indeed of Spanish-America, whether North or South.

The pyramids and temples which the Toltecs and the Aztecs and the Incas built have something grand and broad underlying their main idea, the idea of being able to get on their temples rather than in them.

There is ever a source of inspiration in being upon the point of an eminence, to commune with providence, rather than being immured within some gloomy walls, with toppling spires overhead. The spirit ever tries to get out, to ascend, and is exalted in accordance with its altitude.

Did not Moses at Sinai bring forth the enduring Decalogue from the summit of a great natural pyramid, rather than from the gloomy interior of a temple?

The exceedingly numerous pyramids throughout ancient Mexico seem to attest some exalted idea of a natural religion which found outlet and habitation in the great Teocallis.—New York Telegram.

An American.

A native of any part of North or South America is literally an American, since he is a native of one of the American continents. Usage, however, has narrowed the term so that "an American" is generally understood to be a citizen or native of the United States of America, while a native of Canada, Mexico, Central or South America is known as a "Canadian," "Mexican," "Brazilian," "Guatemalan," or the like. The reason for the usage does not lie in any feeling that the United States preempts, stands for, or overshadows the other parts of the western hemisphere, but simply in the fact that, while Canada, Mexico, Brazil, the United States of Colombia, etc., are words which admit of adjective formation, "American" is the only adjective which can be formed from the name of our country to denote its citizens or to apply to its interests, industries, cities, etc.

Wise Precaution.

Very few people are ambidextrous; that is, able to use the left hand as readily and skillfully as the right. But there is an amusing story of one Irishman who was careful to cultivate that art. When he was signing articles on board a ship he began to sign his name with his right hand, and then changed the pen to his left hand, and finished it.

"So you can write with either hand, Pat," asked the officer.
"Tis so," replied Pat. "Whin I was a bony me father (rest his soul!) always said to me, 'Pat, learn to cut yer finger nails wid yer left hand, for some day yer might lose yer right!'"—Youth's Companion.

Blessing In Disguise.

"I don't see any billboards about here," said the visitor. "Do the residents object to that kind of advertising?"

Yes, but their wishes in the matter had nothing to do with the disappearance of billboards hereabouts," said the Kansas man. "We have provided to thank for that."

"I don't understand."
"Well, every time we accumulate a pack of billboards a cyclone comes along and scatters them over six or seven counties."

FARMER'S WIFE TOO ILL TO WORK

A Weak, Nervous Sufferer Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Kasota, Minn. — "I am glad to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than anything else, and I had the best physician here. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work and suffered with pains low down in my right side for a year or more. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I feel like a different person. I believe there is nothing like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weak women and young girls, and I would be glad if I could influence anyone to try the medicine, for I know it will do all and much more than it is claimed to do."—Mrs. CLARA FRANKS, R. F. D. No. 1, Maplecrest Farm, Kasota, Minn.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should be convinced of the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health by the many genuine and truthful testimonials we are constantly publishing in the newspapers.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (Confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

IS WORLD'S GREATEST CHOIR

Cathedral of Alexander Nevski, in Petrograd, Said to Have Finest Body of Singers.

It is many departments Russia has proved herself the greatest of all countries. Her dancers are the world's finest. Her novelists are certainly among the world's greatest novelists. Her Cossacks—ask the Austrians—are the world's fiercest fighters.

She also possesses the world's finest choir. This is in the cathedral of Alexander Nevski, in Petrograd, and is attached to a convent erected in honor of the patron saint of Russia. It consists of about thirty members, all monks, chosen from the best singers in all the Russian monasteries.

Their voices are amazingly sweet and strong, and every member of the choir can, it is said, shatter an ordinary glass into fragments merely by singing into it, so powerful are the vibrations of each voice.

These monks are trained as rigorously as any opera singer, and their whole duty at the monastery is to assist at the music at mass in the morning and vespers in the afternoon. When too old for service they are retired on pensions.

Unlike most monks, they are exceedingly fastidious about their appearance, and every night put up their hair and whiskers in paper.—Montreal Herald.

Cresaut, the Krupps of France. The celebrated works of the Cresaut, similar to Krupps, Germany, were originally organized for engineering purposes by William Wilkinson, an Englishman, in the year 1788. The works then belonged to a company, in which Louis XVI. had an interest, and were known as the Royal foundry. During the revolution the Cresaut works were nationalized by the government, and during the empire Napoleon kept them running for guns and ammunition for the army. After 1815 armaments no longer paid at the Cresaut and it became bankrupt. A new company, assisted partly by English capital, was formed, and maintained the works until the present proprietors, who have a name more tonic than French—Schneider—acquired them in 1836. It is now the third generation of the Schneidm who control the Cresaut, and, like Krupps, they have established several allied undertakings in connection with the production of armaments and engineering machinery.

Smile In Court.

At a recent trial one of the witnesses was a green countryman, unused to the ways of the law, but quick, as it proved, to understand its principles. After a severe cross-examination the counsel for the prosecution paused, and then, putting on a look of severity, exclaimed:

"Mr. Kilkins, has not an effort been made to induce you to tell a different story?"

"A different story from what I tell sir?"

"That is what I mean."

"Yes, sir, several persons have tried to get me to tell a different story from what I have told, but the couldn't."

"Now, sir, upon your oath, I wish to know who those persons are."

"Well, I guess you've tried 'bout as hard as any of them."—Chicago Herald.

IN PRAISE OF THE LOAFER

Master of Inactivity Usually Invites Confidence and the Friendship of His Fellows.

As a profession, of course, loafing is not to be thought of, for the loafer then becomes an object of contempt and there is something wrong with the man who courts contempt. But loafing as an avocation is another thing; and the successful loafer in that sense is a person of parts, a source of wonder and an example for beginners. Loafing should not be confused with apathetic inactivity. Your true loafer is honest with himself and the world, loafing deliberately and openly, never apologizing for his aversion to labor; and his thoughts never descend below devising new schemes for pleasant loafing. The loafer who merely sits inert is a loafer and will bear watching, but the loafer who is alive to what is going on about him and takes a healthy interest in life and affairs seldom arouses distrust or suspicion.

On the contrary, he usually invites confidence and the friendship of those less abundantly gifted. The social qualities are his particular hobby. He applies himself to the business of being useful to those who do not naturally claim attention; he cultivates a pleasant view of life which makes his smile sincere and his handclasp cheering.

Above all, he never exceeds the limitations of his natural endowments. If he is not possessed of an inherent nimbleness of wit he contents himself with making the most of his heavy wit. Affectation he dislikes, but he is never guilty, except by example, of condemning it in others.

OZONE JAG IS THE LATEST

Bracing Air of the Mountains Is Now Carried into Stuff Offices and Factories.

An ozone jag! One of the newest things, I assure you, and right on the heels of the departing jag that came by way of a morning bracer or an evening cocktail.

The ozone jag is meant to carry the air of a mountain top to your stuffy office or your still stuffer factory and workshop. Instead of having to sneak out when nobody is watching, to get your accustomed eye-opener over the bar, this ozone stimulant is handed around gratis by the boss himself.

Wherever introduced, everybody, from the office boy and typewriter to the head of the establishment, indulges in this new air beverage, which is warranted to make the palest cheek glow like a Gloucester fisherman's and create an appetite that will carry distress to the heart of the stoutest boarding-house mistress.

The ozone is turned loose where all may breathe it. "What is the actual effect?" I inquired of a Philadelphia manufacturer who has really witnessed the results of wholesale ozone jags. "Makes all hands work faster and yet grow fat," was the reply.

The latter result will make it unpopular in spots, but ought to encourage its sale to persons of the Connie Mack type. Factories in this town are really trying this plan to introduce more ozone by artificial means. Physicians tell me that even in large quantities it will do no harm, but will make the blood tingle as if a mild alcoholic stimulant had been administered.—Philadelphia Ledger.

He Got the Apples.

"Once upon a time," began the teacher, "two little brothers started to Sunday school on Sunday morning. Their way led past a fine orchard, where the trees were bending down with ripe, luscious apples. One of the brothers proposed going into the orchard and getting some fruit, but the other refused and sped away, leaving his companion, greedily devouring the apples."

"Now, it happened that the owner of the orchard saw them, and the next day rewarded the good boy who refused to steal his apples by giving him a shilling. He got a prize for his honesty, and what do you suppose the other boy got for his dishonesty?"

"He got the apples!" yelled every member of the class.

Audacity of Woman Spies.

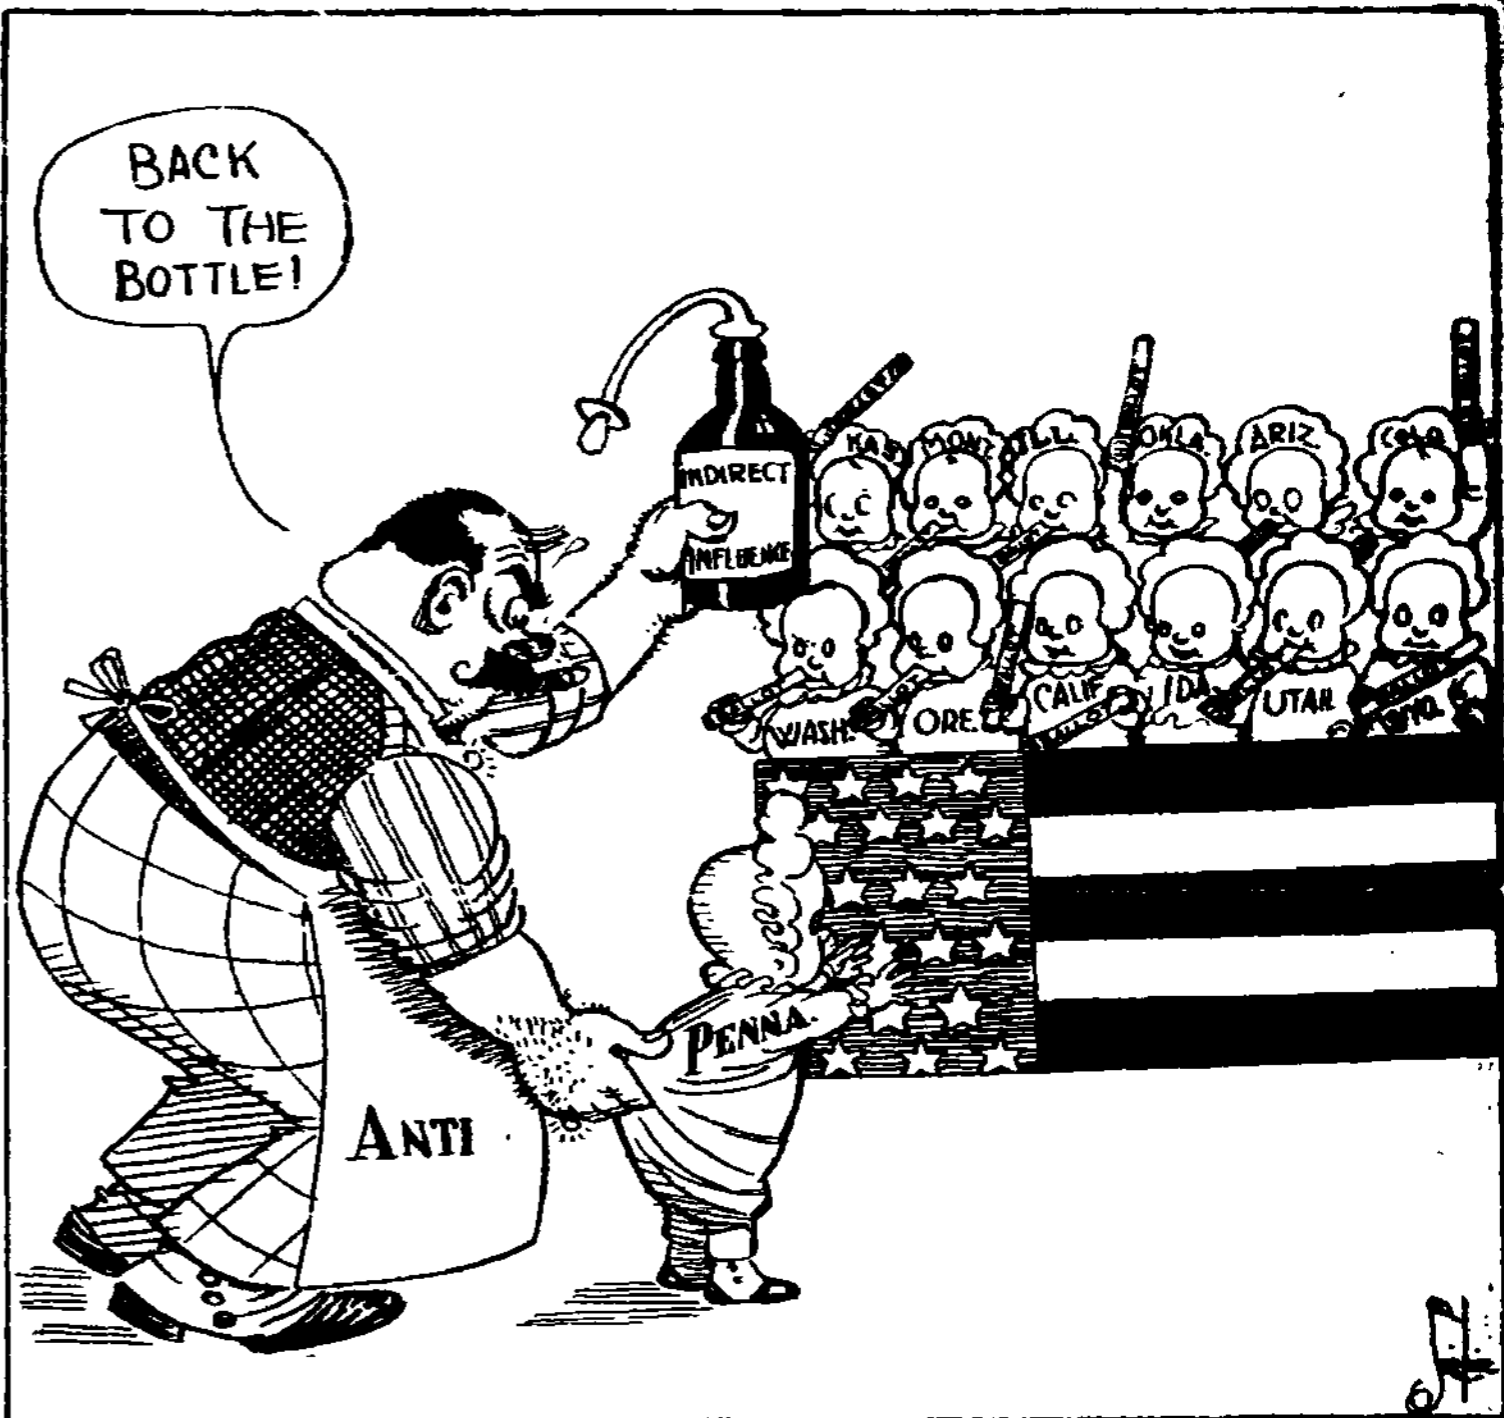

A climax to the audacity of spies is said to have been reached in the case of a woman pretending to be English and giving her name as Miss Booth, who, in connection with another woman calling herself Baroness de Rosen, organized a charitable work at the Gare du Nord, in Paris, which they called "For the Wounded and for the Refugees." The former, suspected of illicit communication with the Germans, passed before a court-martial and was sentenced to two years' imprisonment, while the latter, against whom no tangible proof could be produced, was invited to leave French territory within 48 hours.

Lost Art.

They had been sitting around the table at the club all evening as usual talking about the war—always the war. There fell a little silence at last and then Jones spoke. "Is there any person present," said he, "who can tell me what it was we used to talk about before the war?"

British Colonial Taxes.

England's colonies do not pay direct taxes. That principle was established in the American war for independence. Just now the colonies are making voluntary grants and are establishing the principle that they can only be petitioned for free gifts.

AMENDMENT NO. 1 IS SUFFRAGE ONE

Heads List Of Amendments
Printed at the Bottom
Of The Ballot

MARK "X" BESIDE "YES"

Every Vote Will Help Give Women Their Political Rights

Exact knowledge of the position of the suffrage amendment on the ballot this election and of the way to vote for it are necessary to all those voters who intend to help give the women of Pennsylvania the full political rights to which they are entitled.

It has been officially decided that the constitutional amendments will be at the bottom of the same sheet on which the names of the candidates for the various offices are listed. The suffrage amendment will be the first one.—No 1. All four of the amendments that are to be voted upon will be printed in full, one under the other. On the right hand side of the mass of fine print which gives the legal wording of each amendment will be the words, "Yes" and "No." To the right of each of these words will be a square space in which the voter is to mark a cross to indicate his choice. To vote to give to the women citizens of this State a voice in the government under which they live, the voter must put his cross in the square beside the word "Yes," to the right of Amendment No. 1, thus:

Amendment No. 1	Yes	X
	No.

The women of the State believe that no man who believes in fair play will pass by Amendment No. 1 without marking his cross in the "Yes" square to the right of it.

The question of woman suffrage which will be submitted to the voters on November 2 is not whether women will revolutionize the State or Nation if given the ballot, but one of simple justice.—Bristol Gazette

FAIR PLAY—THAT'S ALL

In asking for the ballot the women of Pennsylvania are merely asking for the same fair treatment at the hands of the government as their forefathers asked when they signed the Declaration of Independence.

If YOU believe in fair play—and we believe that you do—you will see the justice in their appeal and VOTE "YES" ON AMENDMENT NO. 1 ON NOVEMBER 2nd.

A FINAL WORD:

Can you recall any occasion on which the women of this State ever banded together to ask the Legislature for any BAD laws?

Have they ever made any appeal to County, City or Borough that was not for the public good?

Upon your answers to these questions, the women of Pennsylvania are content to rest their case.

THEY HAVE FAITH IN YOUR FAIR-MINDEDNESS.

has long been demanded in this State. But the suffrage interests have made their fight on the merits of their own proposition and they are not in any way depending upon the support of those who favor the other amendments. They will be glad, of course, to get it and they welcome the indications that it will be forthcoming, but the real basis of their confidence lies in the quiet but effective constructive work which they have done. Organizations, clubs, granges, labor unions and many other associations have endorsed the movement and formally called upon their members to support it with their votes at the polls on November second. Almost no work of this character was done in New Jersey.

But that is not all. Not a single political organization has taken a hand against suffrage in Pennsylvania. Indications are now that the political class will observe a "hands off" attitude to the last. In this connection it may be said that it is the big politicians of the State who are most prominent among those who are predicting that the showing made by the suffragists in this State will be totally different from that in Jersey.

Finally, the fact that the Pennsylvania referendum is part of a regular election makes it more certain that a full vote will be polled and that wholesale attempts to ignore or violate the election laws will not be attempted. The women welcome the idea of a heavy vote and will make every effort to get their supporters to the polls both in the cities and the rural communities.

NOT DISMAYED BY JERSEY RESULTS

Pennsylvania Suffrage Situation More Advantageous in Every Particular

QUIET CONFIDENCE PREVAILS

Women Believe That the Chance to Make Pennsylvania Lead the East Will Be Seized by Its Men

The defeat of woman suffrage in New Jersey has had the somewhat curious effect of strengthening the feeling among competent, unbiased observers that suffrage has more than an even chance here in Pennsylvania. Among the leaders of the suffrage forces, the feeling of quiet confidence that has characterized their campaign from the start has perceptibly increased as a result of the reports received since the result in New Jersey became known. In a word, they feel that the New Jersey defeat, in view of all the conditions that surround it, indicates certain success here.

This feeling of the Pennsylvania suffragists is based primarily upon the fact that conditions in the two States are entirely different. There was little real organization work done by the suffragists in the State east of the Delaware. Then again, the election there was a special one. One of the results of that fact was that only a part of the total vote turned out. Another was that the election officials seemed to think that the bars were down and as a result made little or no effort to check the activities of the opposition beggars who ignored and flouted the election laws in the most defiant manner at many of the polling places. The most powerful political organization in the State was openly against suffrage and it fought with all its strength and daring to swamp the women's cause.

As a result of these conditions, not only the suffrage amendment, but two other proposed changes in the State constitution were voted down.

This latter fact has made a profound impression in this State, where three other amendments in addition to the one giving women the right to vote will be voted upon on Election Day. In the eyes of the shrewd and far-seeing observer it stands perhaps as the greatest single influence in swinging opinion here to an agreement that woman suffrage has an excellent chance to win. For the friends of the four amendments which the voters of Pennsylvania will pass upon next Tuesday have come to a realization that if a real fight is made against any of them, all are likely to go down to defeat—and there are some powerful influences behind all of them.

The people of Philadelphia who are anxious to begin a number of sorely-needed public improvements want Amendment No. 2 to go through, and the wage-earners of the State are just as much interested in the fate of Amendment No. 3, which grants the legislature power to pass adequate workmen's compensation laws that will hold in the courts. Amendment No. 4 permits the insurance of land titles in the various counties. The

Suffrage Will Reduce Taxes

In a desperate effort to undermine the rapidly growing strength of woman suffrage, the opponents of suffrage are displaying a willingness to go to any lengths. Typical of their efforts is the false statement that one result of woman suffrage will be an increase of taxes. The exact opposite is the truth. The following tax figures, based upon official reports from representative suffrage and non-suffrage States, prove that in the States where women vote, the tax rate is actually lower:

NON-SUFFRAGE STATES		SUFFRAGE STATES
Wisconsin (per $1,000)	$11.50	Washington (per $1,000)	$8.07
New Hampshire	16.00	Colorado	4.12
Vermont	15.53	Utah	4.00
Missouri	18.00	Wyoming	2.85
Maine	23.50	Kansas	1.20
Minnesota	27.74	Oregon	1.20
		California	.39

The result of woman suffrage is to even wipe out the poll tax which men are required to pay in some States before they can vote. In none of the States where women vote is a poll tax a necessary qualification for voting. California's $2 poll tax was one of the first things swept off the statute books as a result of admitting women to the electorate.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY

See. In fact it would be a decided victory for them at this time if they should break into the Republican ranks at all. Carl E. Gibson, Esq., of Monongahela is the Democratic nominee for congress, but his is a hopeless case against such a man as Dr. Temple.

It is believed that one of the biggest votes ever cast on proposed constitutional amendments will be polled. This will be largely due to the question of woman suffrage which is to come up as amendment No. 1. The trend of opinion seems to be that Washington county will slide into the woman suffrage columns, no matter how the rest of the state goes. Anyhow much sentiment is being shown for woman suffrage.

In borough affairs, naturally there is much interest. Four councilmen are to be elected, three for four year terms and one for a two-year term. Both Republican and Democratic candidates are strong. Two members of the school board are to be selected, and probably a hot fight will be waged. For constable three candidates are looming up, George Stablein, Republican; Frank W. Jones, Washington; and Benjamin Wilson, Democrat. There will be an interesting contest waged here.

Generally everything points to a good Republican victory tomorrow at the polls. There will be some splitting of tickets---there may be a lot of it---but Republican candidates are picked to win. The main thing is to get out a big vote.

Arrangements Made for Establishment of Central Points in Pittsburg and Philadelphia---Johnstown Too Be in Line.

Branch offices of the State Employment Bureau will be opened in Pittsburg and Philadelphia within the coming month, the preparations being about completed for the establishment of these offices, with branches in Johnstown and other places. For several weeks the situation in the cities has been carefully canvassed and the co-operation of municipal authorities and the school officials arranged. The new bureaus will be operated in accord with plans made under the child labor law.

Joseph Lightner, director of the state bureau will come to Pittsburg today where he will take up details of the arrangements for the opening of the bureau and will select a place for the offices. He will work with the municipal authorities. The flood of applications for men continues to come in, many large employers having turned to the state for help in getting workmen.

GOLD FLAG STILL FLOATS IN P.H.C. LODGE ROOMS

The contest in which Charleroi members of the P. H. C. are interested is going merrily along. The standing of the teams is as follows: Gold team, 6510 points; white team, 2325 points. Lock 2, 1165 points. The "pepper" put into the contest by the Gold team is infectious and the members of the white team are getting together to consider the best means to have the white flag floating in the lodge room. Lock No. 4 will be absorbed into the two teams at the next meeting. This will give added zest for the gold team is determined their flag will not be hauled down. Members who have not attended for a long time are now seen in their accustomed places taking their part in the exercises. Last Friday the gold team provided a masquerade social for the evening's entertainment. SOME OTHER MAN'S PARCEL

Commuter Made Profitable Exchange, but Probably Man Who Got the Cat Was Peeved.

A man once lived in Montclair, N. J., whose wife had a pet cat. On a wintry day the cat died. So wintry was the day that the cat could not be buried, for the ground was frozen hard.

To get rid of the body the man determined to bring it with him when he went to New York to business. So he wrapped it up neatly in brown paper, and on getting into his train, put it gently on the hatrack, with the firm intention of forgetting all about it. When he reached the terminus he walked rapidly out of the train, but was barely on the platform when a kindly old gentleman overtook him.

"Your parcel, I think, sir," said he pleasantly, and the man from Montclair thanked him most politely.

All day long the parcel containing the dead cat lay in his office. In the evening he took it home, placing it again in the hatrack and again carefully forgetting it. But again a fellow passenger warned him of his carelessness. Finally he reached home in a not very pleasant frame of mind, and flung the irksome parcel on the kitchen table.

Later on the wife entered the kitchen. The parcel aroused her curiosity, for her husband had said nothing about his failure to bury the cat. She opened it, and discovered three tenderloin steaks!

NOT GLAD TIME FOR WHALES

Resemblance to a Submarine Already Is Known to Have Meant Death to One.

"In the North sea lived a whale." That was long ago. Olivette in Audran's long popular operetta told about the luckless end of that marine mammal in melodious fashion. That whale met a torpedo, and, mistaking it for another and undesirable fish of strange shape, gave it battle with dire results. Now from the same region we have authentic information of a whale which was mistaken, not by another whale, but by a warship, for a submarine boat.

The body of that whale has been cast up on the Dutch coast full of holes made by three-inch shells. Perhaps a whale resembles a submarine more closely than it resembles a torpedo. There are architectural differences, to be sure, which would be noted except in moments of extreme excitement. On and near the North sea today, however, there is a great deal of excitement, and this doubtless perfectly neutral creature has suffered in consequence of it. There is no evidence that this whale, like his predecessor, "loved to swagger and bully," or that "the ladies loved him so." Not being in comic opera, he, or she, presumably had no characteristics unusual to the whales of sober natural history. No record of the incident except the stranding of the mortal remnant exists. One who would describe the encounter must use his imagination. A Kipling or a Bullen might be moved to splendid utterance by contemplation of this tragedy, but in a daily newspaper we must stick to facts, and the ascertained facts in this case are scant.

Use Zinc as Nugget.
A shoveler in one of the Joplin zinc mines who had seen in the movies how the gold miners bought what they needed with gold nuggets, recently laid a small chunk of zinc ore on a bar counter and called for a beer. The bartender served the drink to him and laid down 20 cents in change, and of course the crowd laughed and cheered.

Such is the spirit of the Joplin zinc boom, with crude zinc ore now worth seven cents a pound, which is about 50 per cent higher than the refined product smelter has averaged for many years.--Wall Street Journal.

A Philosopher's Nightcap.
Many years ago I was in a northern country house in which Herbert Spencer was staying. At that time he suffered from sleeplessness, and one night on going to bed he said to me: "I am about to drink some hot brandy and water in order to restore the periodicity of my somniferous functions."--London Spectator.

NORMAL ELIMINATED

leave the game. Pletsol required the attention of a doctor and was taken home. Hickey was back in the struggle before time was called in the last quarter. Hepler played his usual strong game at left tackle. Harrington was at left guard, forming a stonewall defence and a splendid offense on that side of the line. Brown was in the affair from shoe laces to headgear. Goldsmith and Carson, substitute ends played well.

Stahlman's handling of the team at quarterback was good to see. He made good gains running with the ball. Eagye late in the game took Miksch's place and carried the ball for good gains. Kellogg proved himself a good plunging fullback.
